PARDON OUR DUST

Spring has sprung and the cleaning has begun! In our case, however, that also means improvements beyond a bit of tidying up. If you've not stopped by in a while, here's what you may notice.

There is an additional access ramp from the parking lot, providing an option for either entry door. The main entrance to the building also has a handrail to the ramp, and a touch panel door opener. Once inside you'll be quick to notice the brick, now a crisp light gray that brightens the hallway. Check out the restored 1990 dedication plaque prominently displayed on the wall as well.

Both office floors and stairwells received a complete repainting, except for the television studio which has different wall material. Most of the windows have been replaced too, which is a significant upgrade. If you are on the first floor, check out master control's old technology display where you can see all the tape formats used prior to MVCC's digital playback conversion.

The reception room and the producer edit suite wall have classic television manuals, historic pictures, and further vintage items. We hope these improvements make your next visit more memorable.
